EXTREME COLLECTION:

Oud comes from the wood of the tropical Agar (Aquilaria) tree, believed to have originated in the Assam region of India, and from there spread throughout Southeast Asia.

When the wood of this tree gets infected with a certain mold variety (Phialophora parasitica), it reacts by producing a precious, dark and fragrant resin, which is the perfume ingredient Oud (also called agarwood).

The beautiful brown color, with the golden design, is a reflection of the Oud scent.

Extreme Oud fragrance is a woody ambry scent that contains several intensive ingredients such as osmanthus , Oud, geranium, cistus to add the excitement to the formula and patchouli.

- Osmanthus.
